esolution giving the assistant sergeant-t-arms ten days' extra pay. This brought resolution giving the assistant Miller, of Morris, to his feet with a speech denouncing this as a steal and attempt to raid the treasury.

Benefiel, of Montgomery, who introduced the resolution, retorted by saying the gentleman from Morris had never been known to advocate economy where any of his friends and relatives were concerned in the appropriations. This brought Mr. Miller up on a question of privilege. He indig-nantly denied that there was any incon-sistency in his record as an economist. He had steadily fought for the interests of the taxpayers of the state from the beginning of the session and if the gentlerian from Montgomery charged that he had not he Montgomery charged that he had not he stated what he knew was false. This was the nearest approach to a personal difficulty that has occurred this session, but the speaker succeeded in pouring a quart or so of oil on the troubled waters and the dove of peace again fluttered its wings over the capitol.

After this little diversion the house fell back, as an expedient for passing time, on introducing resolutions on all sorts of subjects. When the members tired of that they called on Cubbison, the silver tongued orator from Wyandotte, for a recttation. "Cub," as he is familiarly called, responded with "Banty Tim," to the immense satisfaction of the house, Judge Cole also gave a recttation, as did Borin, from the press gang. A little later it was discovered that J. R. Burton was in the house, and he was called for. Burton always talks well, and to-day he was no disappointment to his friends. He said he had been traveling in the ice-bound regions of Minnesota and was giald to get back to Kansas, the land of sunshine. He had found that a better feeling prevailed in the East toward Kansas than for a long time past. That we had touched bottom and were on the upgrade. Burton, who has been much interested in irrigation in Colorado, spoke most hopefully of the future of irrigation in the west part of the state. He believed that the result would

House Notes.

There has been considerable adverse criticism indulged in about this house, but the fact is it contains an unusual number of bright and earnest men.

Two members of the house justly rank as orators—Beekman, of Cowley, and Cubbison, of Wyandotte. Beekman is the more deliberate and perhaps more offective speaker. Cubbison's words come pouring out like a cataract, but they run smooth as oil and always command attention. Following these in point of oratorical ability are Eckstein, of Sedswick. Cole, of Bartor, Bone, of Clark, and Barkley, of Elk; Painter, of Meade, and Sutton, of Russell. Among the other effective talkers are Miller, of Morris; Benefiel, of Montgomery, and Johnson, of Anderson. Then comes the list of hard working members, who, while not blessed with any special gifts of oratory, were close watchers of the course of legislation. There is Hallinger, of Coffey; Rohrbaugh, of Watchitz, Glenn, of Greeley; Street, of Decahur, Remington, of Miami; Seaton of Atchison: Caldwell, of Douglas; Robinson, of Jackson: Fitzgerald, of Ford, and Warner, of Chrokee. Warner has been the greatest stickler for parliamentary order in the house. Neither would it be fair to pass by Sheafor, of Cloud; Cox, of Negan, of Sunner, and Butler, of Bourbon, with a score of other members who have attended strictly to business.

Another member of the house has been housed by the administration—Sutton, of Russell, who has been selected as one of the board of irrigation.

previous sessions, and the provided ators idled about, awaiting the report of conference committees upon the four delayed measures. They were bills for the maintenance of the Osawatomie insane asylum and the industrial school at Beloit, and the executive and judicial and the miscellaneous appropriation bills.

The trouble with the first two bills was not upon the amounts appropriated, but as to who should expend the money. The senate, which is disposed to give the board of public works a black eye, stood out to have the building funds placed under control of the state board of charities, while the house wanted the board of public works to spend the money. Several conferences by different committees were held during the day, but without breaking the stubbornness of either house.

When the poon hour arrived the time for out breaking the stubbornness of either house. When the noon hour arrived the time for adjournment was extended until 3 o'clock, and when that hour arrived it was again extended to 19 p. m.

A resolution was adopted in respect to Captain John Smith, who died so suddenly yesterday, and a recess was taken between the hours of 4 and 5 in the afternoon to permit members of the legislature to escort the body to the depot. The Masonic fraternity was in charge of the funeral, and the body was taken to Columbus for burial.

and the body was taken to common shurial.

To force the senate to recede from its action in taking the Osawatomie and Beloit appropriation from the board of public works, the house tacked an amendment to the executive and judicial bill which provided that its appropriation should be discussed by the board of public works. There was no difference between the house and senate as to the sums appropriated, and the Anderson, Ind., March 5.—Anderson experienced a $100,000 gas explosion this morning shortly after 3 o'clock. Three business rooms were shattered and windows for several blocks blown out. The contents of the stores, were blown squares away. The court house clock was blown out of the tower. The debris caught fire instantly and threatened to consume the entire business district, and it was late this afternoon before the flames were extinguished. The shock of the explosion was felt for many miles. A broken gas main allowed the gassito esape. In could not come up through the frozen ground and forced itself into the cellar. Some connection with a lighted jet did the rest. The Terhune block, occupied by the When Clothing Company, Cal Prather's shoe store and Hadley's drug store, are total wrecks from the explosions. All efforts were confined to saving surrounding property. The scattered debris seemed to be ablaze and fire brands threatened destruction in all direction. Losses were as follows: When Clothing Company, $5,000; building, $25,000. Other damage by tire, water and concussion will make the total loss $100,000. The total insurance does not exceed $40,000. Anderson, Ind., March 5 .-- Anderson ex

Little Prospect for the Wichita Reservation

Little Prospect for the Wichita Reservation to Be Opened to Settlers.

Washington, March 5.—(Special.) The provision approving the agreement with the Wichitas, now a law, shows the controlling hand of the secretary of the Interior in the interest of these having cattle grazing in that reservation. The law provides that the secretary of the Interior shall open the reservation to settlement within one year after other allotments have been completed. There is, however, no limit of time given in which to make the allotments. Thus it appears that the secretary can nullify the law by fillbustering in the matter of making the allotments. No one doubts but he will make no effort to hasten the work of making the allotments, and in this way it is reasonably certain that the leasing interests in the reservation will not be disturbed during the administration, and the settlers will be compelled to wait until the end of the present regime.

propriation Bill.

Guthrie, O. T., March 5.—(Special.) A large amount of business was rushed through the legislature to-day, the state house being jammed with a throng of lobbyists and visitors from all parts of the territory. The first thing in the house was the introduction of a bill locating the territorial them a seneral appropriation $25,00 for the erection of a building; then a general appropriation bill appropriation bil ng, then a general appropriation bill ap-propriating over $20,000 for the mainte-nance of various territorial institutions, in this bill was a section abolishing the attorney general's office, and others mov-ing the county seat of "K" county from Newkirk to Blackwell; of Grant county from Bound Pond to Medford, and a sec-

Newkirk to Blackwell; of Grant county from Round Pond to Medford, and a section providing for county seat elections in every county in the territory next year. This bill created uproar. The county seat becomes had their schemes inserted in the appropriation bill, and ind secured votes enough to pass it, hoping to compel the governor to allow their schemes to guthrough because a veto would leave the various institutions and offices without appropriations, but there was one thing they had overlooked, and that was a law adopted by the last legislature prohibiting the introduction or passing of bills embracing more than subject, and under this law Speaker Barnes ordered the clerk to reject the bill. This made backers wild, and after trying in vain to upset this ruling they declared their intention of depasing the speaker and electing a new one before the day was over. A move of this kind had been expected all day, but up to a late hour this evening they have made no effort to put their threat into execution.

A number of bills passed both houses, one providing for payment of taxes in June and December; creating a territorial board of railway assessors; authorizing the territory, all counties, townships, cites, towns and school districts to issue twenty year 6 per cent bonds to refund all warrant indebtedness; limiting interest or judgments to 12 per cent when a rate is contracted, and fixing it at 7 per cent when

The defeat of the statehood legislation for Oklahoma and the absence of relief in other directions for that country in the late congress is met with the firm belief that something will be done by the next congress The situation is summed up by Hon, Sidney Clarke, chairman of the statehood committee, as follows: "No congress since the lose of the war has been as inefficient and triffing in dealing with great public ques tions as the one just closed. Assistant Attorney General Thomas Ha-

Washington, March 5 - Assistant Attor ney General Thomas, of the postoffice department, has made an important ruling egard to so-called "newspaper laws." The so-called laws referred to an office promulgated by some newspapers to the effect that subscriptions to a paper cannot be stopped until full payment of arrearage has been made, and that a publisher may prosecute in criminal action a subscriber, who refuses to take his paper from the office, not having paid full retarage, or a subscriber who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. These rules the assistant attorney general says have no existence under the law.
